Ultrasonic inspection service to be offered worldwide.

For Immediate Release

CHICAGO/EWORLDWIRE/Jan. 28, 2005 --- Infrared Testing Inc. announces the introduction of a new PM/RM inspection service. As of January 30, 2005, Infrared Testing will provide ultrasonic inspection services worldwide. This service can be packaged with current infrared inspection services or purchased independently. Infrared Testing Inc. will use Web Risk Manager (WRM) technology to manage and distribute inspection reports, audits, stewardship reports and business interruption analyses.

Ultrasonic inspection uses high-pitch frequencies to inspect for pressure and vacuum leaks, electrical emissions, bearing failure, motor failure, underground leaks, steam traps, and other equipment type failures. Infrared Testing Inc. is a market leader in infrared testing service and now will add an important preventative maintenance as well as risk management exposure mitigation tool.

"Combine this new service and our technology to manage, distribute and collaborate critical inspection information with Web Risk Manager, and we have another winning solution to offer our customers," said Infrared Testing Inc.'s Dan Malagoli.

About Infrared Testing

Infrared Testing Inc. (ITI) was founded in Chicago in 1989 by Terrence Malagoli. Since that time, the company has grown from a small, local testing group to a worldwide industry leader. ITI has remained on the cutting edge of the industry's technology. In 14 years of operation, ITI has conducted 28,000 inspections in 38 countries. The company also provides loss prevention services to many of the top 500 companies in the world.
