Western Media Signs Master Services Agreement With NetWolves Corporation To Offer NetWolves Products And Services Via The MedlinkVPN(TM)

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

COMMACK, N.Y./EWORLDWIRE/Sep. 9, 2003 --- Western Media Group Corporation (OTCBB:WMGC.OB) today announced that it has signed a master services agreement with NetWolves Corporation (Nasdaq: WOLV). Under this agreement the MedLinkVPN(TM) will be able to offer Netwolves products and services through its Medical Virtual Private Network to ensure HIPAA compliancy to its doctors and the medical community.

This is an extension of the previous agreement between Netwolves and Western Media which allows Western Media to offer the full menu of products from Netwolves.

The MedLinkVPN(TM) is designed to allow physicians and other members of the medical community to contact other physicians, retrieve information from the hospital, and obtain insurance related information such as claim status. The VPN is also designed to provide information such as overnight admissions, room assignments, operating room schedules and lab results. Some of the other key services provided to the medical community via the MedLinkVPN(tm) are:

MEDCALL123

Medcall123 is an internet based message center developed by Western Media that allows for more efficient communication between patients and doctors.

Digital Radiology

MedLinkVPN(TM) offers its clients the Avreo Radiology Workflow Software that allows for the reading of MRIs and CAT scans digitally.

Wildgate

Features offered will include Wildgate Automated Appointment Confirmation, Dictation and Transcription, Record-a-Call, Data Storage, Billing Solutions and Toll-free One Number and Unified Communications Solution which offers Call Blasting, EVoice (e-mail over the phone), One Button Call Back, and Event Notification. For more information about Wildgate Wireless, Inc. please visit <http://www.wildgate.com>

Additional services offered by the MedLinkVPN(TM) are transcription, billing, and practice management solutions.
